

ZBULO! DISCOVER ALBANIA

Albania's Mysterious South (8 days)

Trek the Coastal Mountains & Albanian Riviera

Albania's beaches get crowded during the summer but for many the Ceraunian Mountains are only a memorable backdrop. Our trek between the mountains and Ionian Sea, hinterland villages and olive groves, homestays and family run hotels shows you what most others are missing out on.

Intro

The two thousand meter high Ceraunian Coastal Mountains separate the Albanian Riviera from rarely visited hinterland villages. Our trek starts at the Adriatic but soon leaves the sea behind to visit the remote Shushica Valley. From here the high route across the Balcony of the Riviera leads to the Ionian Sea. Hikes take you from beaches at sea level to tranquil olive groves and the highest peaks of the South. En route we explore old stone villages, swim at the country's best beaches, learn about Labeat pastoral culture and sample a wide range of Albanian dishes. Not enough? Stay a little longer to enjoy the beaches or continue visting the cultural highlights of Southern Albania.

This is a Zbulo Original, in cooperation with GIZ we created a network of routes in the back country and along the Albanian Riviera known as the "Mysterious South" aiming to offer an alternative to seasonal beach tourism.

Is this trip for me?

7 hikes up to 7h walking time (Ø 6:15h) and up to 1,250 m altitude difference.

Difficulty 3/4 Challenging

For treks in mountainous and alpine terrain fitness is important and previous trekking experience recommended. It is not vital as long you are confident of your physical condition and sure-footedness. Prepare to endure poor weather and to navigate rocky undefined routes, remoteness can also play a part. Walking days are usually between 5 and 8 hours, although they can be longer to cross passes or peaks (mostly optional). Daily ascents will likely be around 900m to 1.000m, perhaps with the odd day ascending around 1.100m to 1.300m.

Comfort 2/4 Welcoming

That means: hotels with private ensuite rooms & guesthouse with shared rooms
- participants share a room with 2-5 other travelers from the group

Breakdown: 4 night(s) in private ensuite, 3 night(s) in shared room(s)

1. Arrival in Southern Albania's Adriatic Port Vlorë The Amphitheater of Durres and Apollonia Archaeological Site

Group transfer from Tirana departing at the latest at 15:00

Welcome at the Tirana Airport, reaching the sea-side town of Vlorë will take about 3h (150km). Depending on your arrival time we may stop along the route in Fier or Durres, Albania's largest harbor and bridgehead of the Via Egnatia that connected Rome with Constantinople. We may stretch our legs on a short walk to visit the large amphitheater and remaining fortifications before we continue into the coastal basin. Before the agricultural revolution of the 60s this was a malaria stricken wetland, most of the lagoons were drained and turned into the fertile farmland the Myzeqe Plain is now known for. Fier boasts the remains of the ancient city Apollonia, the Temple of Agonothetes is a delight and exhibits on display within the museum. Soon we drive past salt pans into the Adriatic port in the Bay of Vlorë, a savory seafood dinner awaits us there. After the failure of a series of Pyramid schemes in 1997 the town played a major role in following uprising and unrest but today attracts holidaymakers with its sandy beaches and pleasant evening stroll called the "xhiro".

2. In the Footsteps of Caravan Travel

Across the St. Georg's Pass into the Shushica Valley

↔ 12.5 km    ▲ 875 m    ▼ 700 m    ✕ 6:15 h

The short drive (50min, 30km) along coves and pebble beaches offers views of Sazan Island and the Karaburun's spine. The peninsula separates the Adriatic from the Ionian Sea and forms the Otranto channel, the narrowest passage with Italy. The village Dukat is our starting point, embedded in a small side valley at the foothills of the Llogara National Park. On a forgotten caravan route that connected the Roman harbor with inland colonies, now only used by goat herders, we ascend over meadows and through fir trees to the St. George Pass (1.132m). After lunch, we turn a last time towards the sea before descending into the Shushica Valley and Southern Highlands. Panoramic views of the Ceraunian Range's (Greek for thunder-split peaks) highest tops accompany the descent on a donkey trail which leads us through an ancient oak forest and the deserted village Pirgu to Terbac. Our first delicious homemade dinner and overnight at the modest home of a shepherd's family.

3. The Laberia Highlands and their Culture

Transfer hike through the rolling hills and the Table of God Viewpoint

⇔ 13 km    ▲ 675 m    ▼ 925 m    ✕ 6:00 h

Today, an easier walking day takes us from Terbac along the valley floor to the next village. After the lower neighborhoods we descend into the small canyon of a turquoise stream that invites to a splash and rise again with the views of Mt. Kendervica (2121m) on the horizon. Meeting donkey riders along the way, we walk through orchards and light forest to Vranisht, a village situated at the foot of the highest coastal mountain, Cika (2045m). After a coffee (or raki?) break at our host's home, you can either remain here for a relaxed afternoon or continue to visit the so-called "Table of God". The viewpoint sits 500 meters above the valley and offers views to yesterday's pass and across the valley. As in most of Laberia region's villages, monuments dedicated to the partisan's anti-fascist struggle can be found here and the locals still keep books and pictures of former dictator Enver Hoxha. Tonight we're tasting once more the pastoral community's cuisine.

4. The Grand Crossing of the Ceraunian Range

Panoramic Views from the Balcony of the Riviera

⇔ 14.75 km    ▲ 1,250 m    ▼ 850 m    ⌕ 7:30 h

The longest and most challenging walk of this journey traverses the Coastal Mountains and takes us closer to the Ionian Sea. After a 30 min transfer, we make our way to the old ruined village of Kallarat. Burned down by Greek troops at the brink of World War I, it is an eerie sight. A long climb, partly in shade, partly on scree, takes us to a series of meadows that lie hidden on top of the plateau. Two groups of shepherds reside here for most of the year, in turns the men take care of the flock as wolfs pose a constant danger for the animals. Our efforts are rewarded when we reach 1400m above the sea - locals have dubbed this place the Balcony of the Riviera. On clear days, panoramic views reach from the Greek border and island Corfu over most of the Riviera's diverse coastline to the highland villages, rugged Ceraunian Range and in spring snow-covered Mt. Nemercka (2.482m). We descend to the village Pilur where we stay in a guesthouse with a Labeat family, famous for the family's poets and singers.

5. From the Mountains to the Sea

Descend through Stone Villages and Olive Groves to the Beach

↔ 20 km    ▲ 475 m    ▼ 1,000 m    ✕ 7:00 h

Still on 700 meters above the sea, we start descending on shepherds paths with views of peaks and into the river canyon towards Kudhes. While only five kilometers from the coast, no beach goer ever visits the village that climbs up a ridge towards the spine of the mountains. After a coffee break and chat with the remaining elders, we continue through tranquil olive groves and reascend towards a last pass. Behind the top, the turquoise Ionian Sea, island Corfu and eventually the old village of Qeparo appear slowly. Time seems to stand still in the maze of stone houses and cobbled streets that overlook the seemingly endless olive trees from their hilltop position. After another break, we make our way to sea level and drive into the nearby Bay of Porto Palermo. It's the only safe harbor within a day's distance, used since ancient times by sailors and of such strategical importance that Ali Pasha constructed a castle here and the Soviets submarine pens to access the Mediterranean. In nearby Himare we stay at the sea front, time for a well-earned swim before dinner of fresh fish.

6. Coastal Trekking between Beaches

Hike & Swim at the Riviera's best Beaches

⇔ 15 km

▲ 600 m

▼ 600 m

⌘ 5:30 h

Instead of mountains and villages, today's route takes us across cliffs and through Mediterranean macchia from one beach to another. The 600 meters of altitude difference make clear that this is by no means a flat walk, but it can also be skipped in favor of leisure time at the sea. Our round-up includes Spile, Livadh, Aquarium, Jal, Gjipe and Dhermi, each beach has its own attraction and beauty: Aquarium was nicknamed for its crystal clear waters, Jal is Albania's answer to Ibiza and Gjipe, perched in a 70m high canyon, still refreshingly free of construction. After an extended break, the last stretch leads us to the ruined monastery of warrior saint Theodore and the beach resort Dhermi. Time permitting, we can climb through little alleys to the top of the old town. From here, pretty villages, citrus groves and olive terraces line the road that takes us in switchbacks more than a thousand meters up the Llogara Pass. Inside the national park we stay for two nights at a family-run mountain hotel that serves hearty meals.

7. The Coast's Highest Summits

Walk from Llogara Pass to Mt. Qorre (2.018m)

⇔ 7 km    ▲ 1,000 m    ▼ 1,000 m    ✕ 6:15 h

The second highest point of the Ceraunian coastal mountains is now in our reach. Starting early at the Llogara Pass, a well-trodden donkey path zigzags through pine forest up the mountain side. En route viewpoints look out across the glimmering waters and beaches at which Caesar landed to cross the very same mountain range in pursuit of his opponent. The panoramic Dhjopuri Saddle (1.600m) makes for a good rest point, the onward trail to the peak of Mt. Qorre (2.018m) is optional. Along the spine, we quickly reach the alpine line where between skeleton trees, the path peters out and the terrain becomes very steep. The last meters are a challenge but offer stunning views towards Mt. Cika (2.045m). Our summit towers equally high above the Ionian Sea and overlooks the Southern Highlands including Shushica Valley route. We return on the same route to a beer garden with a view for celebration drinks. Nearby the hotel we can visit the ranger station or take a stroll to a viewpoint at "Caesar's Pass" prior to the last supper.

8. Across the Spine of the Karaburun Peninsula

Rainforest and Ridgehike with Views of the Ionian and Adriatic Sea

⇔ 11 km    ▲ 625 m    ▼ 425 m    ⌘ 4:30 h

Our last walk starts just outside the hotel, on a shepherd route we hike through cold climate rainforest up the "Deep Pass" and Mt. Gjipali (1.446 m). Here the Karaburun Peninsula's western slopes plunge steeply into the blue Ionian Sea and panoramic views of the Bay of Vlora, yesterday's peaks and rugged Albanian Riviera accompany the walk along the peninsula's spine. We pause for an early lunch break and memorize the views of jagged peaks and turquoise waters before descending to the Llogara Pass. Those who like to return to the Riviera for more time at their favorite beach can catch a bus or taxi, else we return North for onward travels or an optional overnight in Tirana. The city itself is caught between its Eastern heritage and Western ambitions, between rising skyscrapers and old Communist monuments it looks for new identity. Your plans permitting, we explore the modern metropolitan city that stands in stark contrast to our experience in rural Albania, join for dinner and head out to the capital's famous nightlife in one of the trendy late night bars of the "Block" district.
